Have you noticed that dogs live by their noses? A dog's sense of smell is more powerful than we can possibly imagine. So instead of nagging your dog to stop sniffing, here's a chance to learn how to have fun letting your dog be led around by their nose!!

Scent games are useful because:

- All dogs have the natural ability
- The act of scenting is both stimulating and tiring for your dog
- Scenting games can be played by the whole family

Included in the seminar: Fun for you and your dog ;-)

- Both indoor and outdoor activities (weather permitting)
- Beverages and snacks

Dee Ganley has worked with dogs for over 35 years Dee has been instrumental in bringing Positive Reinforcement Training to the New England Area since 1987 and has helped thousands of dogs and their owners with serious issues such as aggression and separation anxiety. Dee is owner of Dee Ganley Dog Training Services. Check out her website at www.deesdogs.com She currently teaches classes and provides private consultations to dogs and their caregivers at many locations and in their homes too.
